How to build a three layer neural network from scratch

Step 3: forward propagation. There are roughly two parts of training a neural network. First, you are propagating forward through the NN. That is, you are making steps forward and comparing those results with the real values to get the difference between your output and what it should be. You basically see how the NN is doing and find the errors.

AI Neural Network for beginners Part 2 of 3 CodeProject

NOTE : Part 3 of this series will be using a GA to train a Neural Network, which is Reinforcement learning. The GA simply does what a GA does, and all the normal GA phases to select weights for the Neural Network. There is no back propagation of values. The Neural Network is just good or just bad. As one can imagine, this process takes a lot more steps to get to the same result.

Neural Networks Tutorial A Pathway to Deep Learning

So if we have a neural network with one output layer, and given some input x we want the neural network to output a 2, yet the network actually produces a 5, a simple expression of the error is $abs(2-5)=3$. For the mathematically minded, this would be the L^1 norm of the error (don t worry about it if you don t know what this is).
