health effects of environmental radiation [1 19]. In this monograph a single approach to the study of the effects of ionizing ra-diation on mammals is formulated and developed. This approach deals with the modeling study of effects of acute/chronic irradiation on vital body systems as well as on the mortality of mammals.

WHO Environmental radiation

Environmental radiation. Radiation has always been a natural part of our environment. Natural radioactive sources in the soil, water and air contribute to our exposure to ionizing radiation, as well as man-made sources resulting from mining and use of naturally radioactive materials in power generation, nuclear medicine, consumer products, military and industrial applications.
